What are you buying?

More than anything, you want confidence.

You want confidence that your Iron is going to help you hit a solid and accurate approach shot.

A recent check of 82 golfers found that 63% of them were playing with a lie angle at least 1° too upright or too flat. That's 52 golfers who are going to struggle for confidence.

Get fitted: Gain confidence

Why wouldn't you want to play with a lie angle that HELPED you hit solid accurate golf shots? Why wouldn't you play with a lie angle that GAVE YOU confidence? You should always get fitted.

Check your equipment

Let's get your Irons checked. Let's help you build confidence in your approach shots.

Champ the champion

PGA Tour's longest player wins with Srixon Z-STAR

Cameron Champ has won his second PGA tour trophy within two years of switching to the Srixon Z-STAR XV golf ball.

On his way to victory at this year's Safeway Open, Champ topped the Driving Distance and Scrambling rankings. An achievement no doubt helped by playing a ball that's long off the tee and soft around the green.

Consistently better

Please,
not the hands

What part of your body controls your swing? Too many golfers struggle with consistency because their hands (and arms) are too involved in their golf swing.

A swing controlled by the hands and arms depends too much on the finer, smaller muscles. Swinging on plane becomes difficult. Consistency of ball striking is impossible. And it's much more difficult to create power.

You need to let the large muscles control the swing to create consistency and power

You need to let the large muscles control the swing to create consistency and power.

Test it out on the range

On the range, feel what part of your body starts your backswing and what part starts your downswing. Controlling the first movement of both the backswing and downswing with the correct part of your body can be a big pay-off for most of you.
